FACES AND

Looking For Another Victory---

Faces Illuminated With Inexhaustible Expression Tackle Challenges of 67-68 ---

On August 25--faces, revealing a million varied expectations, reunited in the halls at Nixa High. Summer thoughts were filed away in the back of the mind; the foreground was cleansed and prepared for a fresh new year. Eyes surveyed apprehensively the freshly mown campus, cool gray stone walls, bright shiny windows, and excited faces of friends, old and new. Teachers' faces smiled encouragingly, yet spoke seriously. Students' faces strained to see, hear, smell, and sense the coming year. They could taste bitter work and sweet rewards. Faces full of expression, radiated with a burning desire to make this year 1967-68 the best year at N. H. S.

Furnaces without heat can be a big problem for any custodian. This could make anyone lose his big smile. You can prove this by Vic Maples and Ely Ramsey.

Jimmy Nichols, Nixa's youngest bus driver, can keep a smiling face, despite yelling, screaming students.

Students have seen Howard Evans smiling face for over 20 years.

Les, Julie, and Candy Wilson are happy to be riding to school on one of Nixa's 7 big buses.

MUSICIANS WIN STATE HONORS

1967-68 was an eventful year for N. H. S. Music Department. All groups represented the school in a competent and impressive manner.

Band members start training early in Beginner Band at East Elementary, then advance to Intermediate Band at North. These groups marched in the Sucker Day Parade.

A new fiber-glass sousaphone was added to the High School Band. Members combined concert work with marching at a mid-winter program.

The Junior High Chorus presented the Christmas program, "The Night Before Christmas."

Mrs. Biro directed the All Grades Chorus in a Christmas Sing at the December PTA program.

Rita Souter, Van Fitzpatrick, and Ron Gardner were members of the Trombone Trio who received "I" ratings at the District Festival, and also at the State Festival in Columbia.

Rita was given a "I" rating on her trombone solo.

Concert Chorus had its beginning this year. It was added as a full credit course to the curriculum, and met daily. Their choral Christmas Cantata, "Night Of Miracles" was most impressive. New chorus dresses were adopted this year.

The Girls Sextet received a "I" rating at District Festival and at the State Meet in Columbia. Members of the sextet are: Cathy Ash, Diana Eutsler, Susie Espy, Regina Mitchell, Donna Smith and Janice Keltner.

Kurt Keltner, Kim Keltner, Roger Sanders and Jim McCowan make up the Boys Quartet who received "I" ratings at both District and State Festivals. Kurt received a "I" rating in his solo.

The Stage Band was also a new organization of 1967-68. Its peppy members gave stirring performances at Homecoming, pep rallies and basketball games.

ATHLETES TRAIN FOR SPORTS ACTIVITIES

Brent Flood goes over the high bar with his pole. The Decathlon helped him find what he liked in sports and what he could excel in.

The Physical Education Department encourages a goal of self improvement for every student. It is hoped that each will become better adapted to handle situations which involve a high degree of self discipline and muscular coordination. Students are given standardized tests to determine improvement in muscular development.

All students from grades 8 through 12 are required to participate in the Decathlon, a series of 10 events which include high jump, broad jump, discus, pole vault, shot put and 8 running events.

The Decathlon feeds people into the track program. The student finds what he is able to do.

The Intramural Basketball program gives boys who are interested an opportunity to play basketball in an organized tournament with students of their own age.

Gayla Tennis takes a high jump on the trampoline. Carolyn Willoughby awaits her turn.

Students find this piece of equipment a challenge. It takes agility, develops coordination and provides a good deal of laughter.

The boys Trampoline Team gave several exhibitions at winter basketball games.

The Tumbling Team also gave several performances during the school year.

Don Wisecarver, 8th grader, won 1st in summer track.

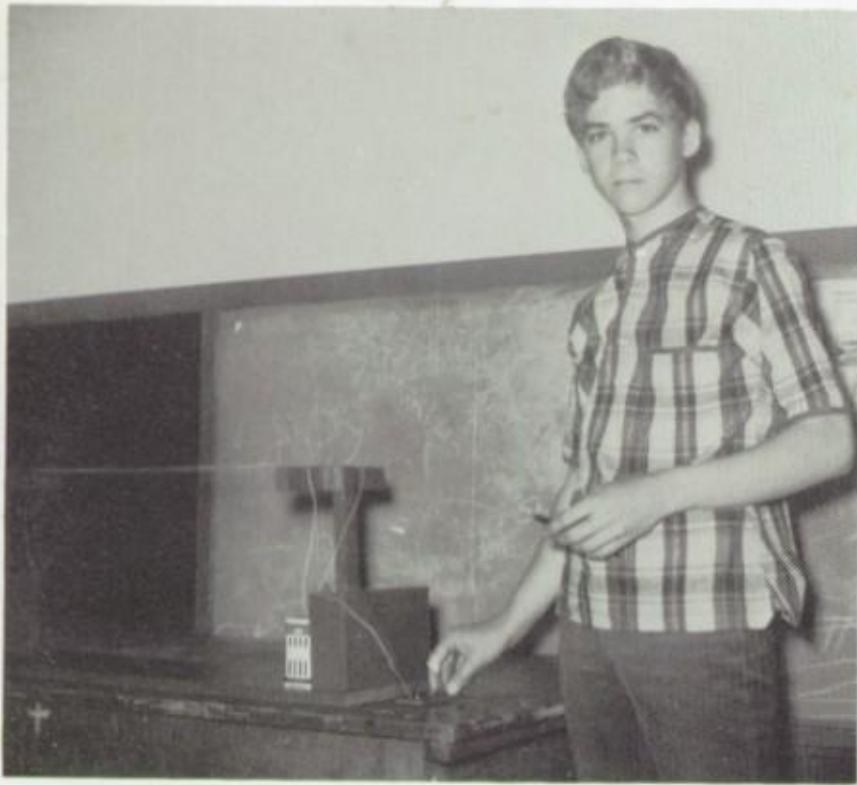

Such a program as the Decathlon helped Don to find what he does best.

Coaches Donald Price and Noel E. Curl are the backbone of the strong physical education program at Nixa High.

Coach Price has taught a Medical Self-Help Training Course the last semester.

SCIENCE STUDENTS WIN AT FAIR

Kim Manjeot entered this homemade telegraph in the Ash Grove Science Fair. He won an excellent rating. Daniel Gamble entered this home aquarium which featured rare tropical fish.

HISTORY ---- FROM PAST TO PRESENT

The study of historical events and their effect on present day living experiences played an important part in the history classes at Nixa High.

Citizenship, World History and American history are required courses which provide a background of American heritage. 8th graders are required to take American history, too.

A new course for Seniors has been added to the curriculum this year. It has been a most interesting class. The first semester was spent on world geography. During the last semester the class studied national and international issues.

The Vietnam situation was one of the most popular discussions. The forthcoming political election was equally popular.

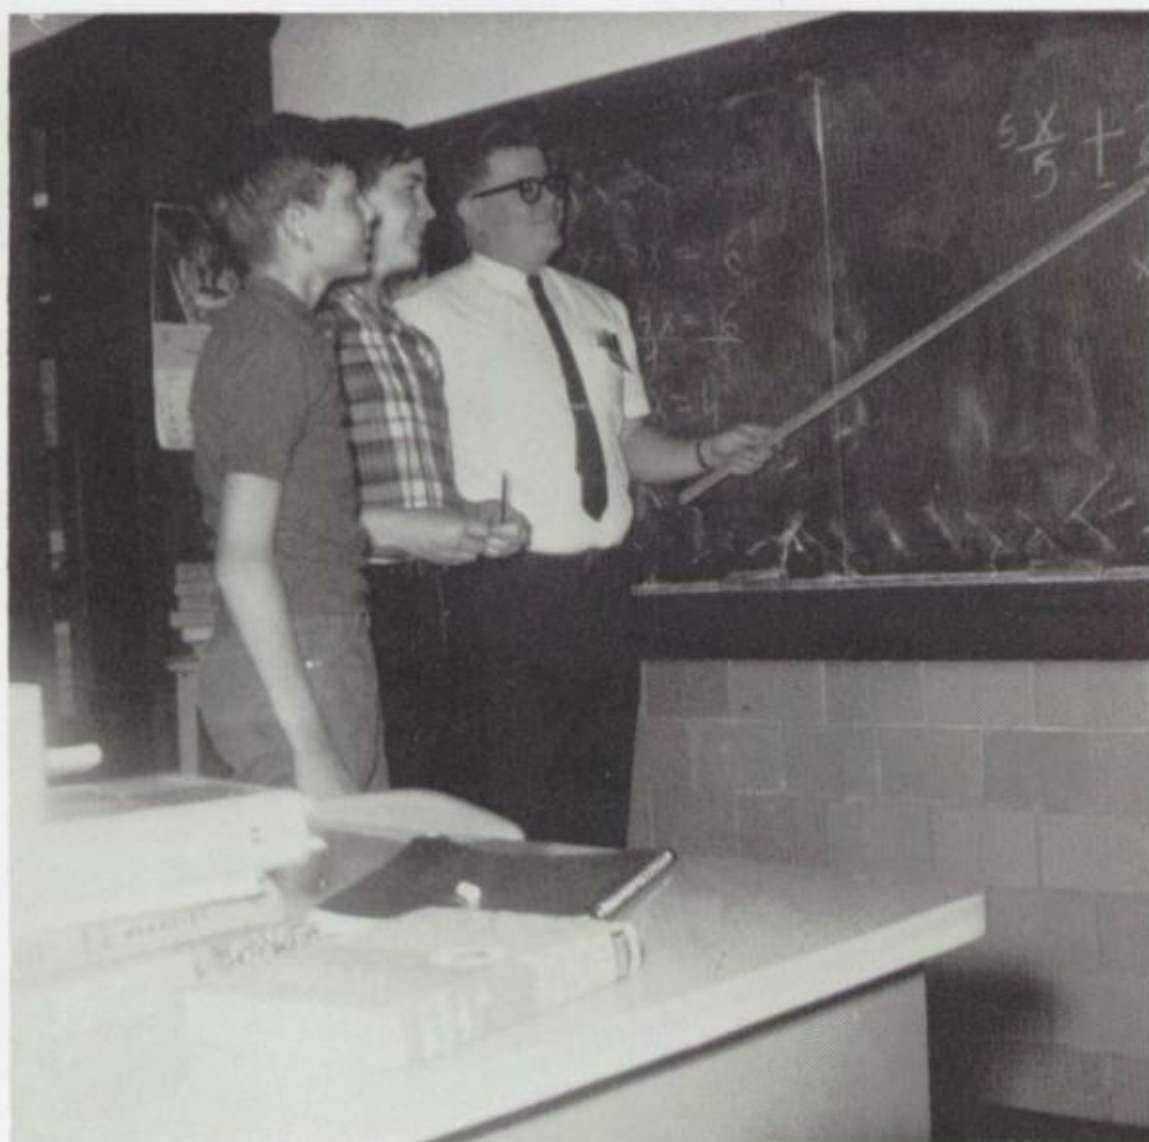

Bob Harvill and Frank Burns are taking the required course in Citizenship. They make a detailed study of the Missouri Constitution and all phases of state and local government.

Panel Discussions and debates aroused much interest in Junior and Sophomore classes. Oral reports, question boxes and games were featured in Junior High classes. Many bulletin boards were constructed by students.

Every one seems to know the answer, but Ollie Derrick.

MATHEMATICS MUST BE APPLIED TO REAL LIFE --

Understanding modern concepts and developing skills are of prime concern to the Nixa High Math Department.

The emphasis in math is on the understanding of the structure of the various concepts of modern math and developing facility in applying techniques and skills to life situations and to advanced study.

A math student also learns to understand the role of deductive reasoning in mathematics and to develop appreciation for the need of precise language in this field.

All 8th grade students are required to take general math.

John Hawkins and Randy Lawson get their first taste of algebra. Easy isn't it? It could be after Mr. Nichols shows the class the formula.

Vera Blevins is using the Calculator to total a column of figures. This machine is an aid to bookkeepers for it does all the four fundamental processes of mathematics quickly and easily.

Van Fitzpatrick, a Junior, is a first year typing student. This course is open to all students.

Students find typing an aid to their future school work. It makes note-taking, theme writing and general writing activities easier and faster and much neater.

Typing students act as a secretary-typist for all high school teachers. They prepare tests, study sheets or booklets for special occasions.

These students address the Homecoming invitations, and construct and mimeograph the yearly Parent-Teacher Program booklets.

OF VALUE TO THE COMMUNITY

Business Education is an essential part of the secondary school program. It is that phase of education which stresses the business facts, knowledges, understandings, and skills needed by the individual as a consumer and as a producer.

The growth and development of each student in economic understanding is the prime aim of business education.

Probably no other field in education lends itself more readily and naturally than business education.

The Business Department is providing a block of Vocational Business instructions which consist of Secretarial Office Practice and Advanced Shorthand.

Data processing, data communication, filing, machines, records, typing, dictation and transcription and career as a secretary are adequately covered.

Sandi Lawson and Debbie Jackson, third year business students, participate in the Vocational Block. They are preparing for a secretarial position or a bookkeeper.

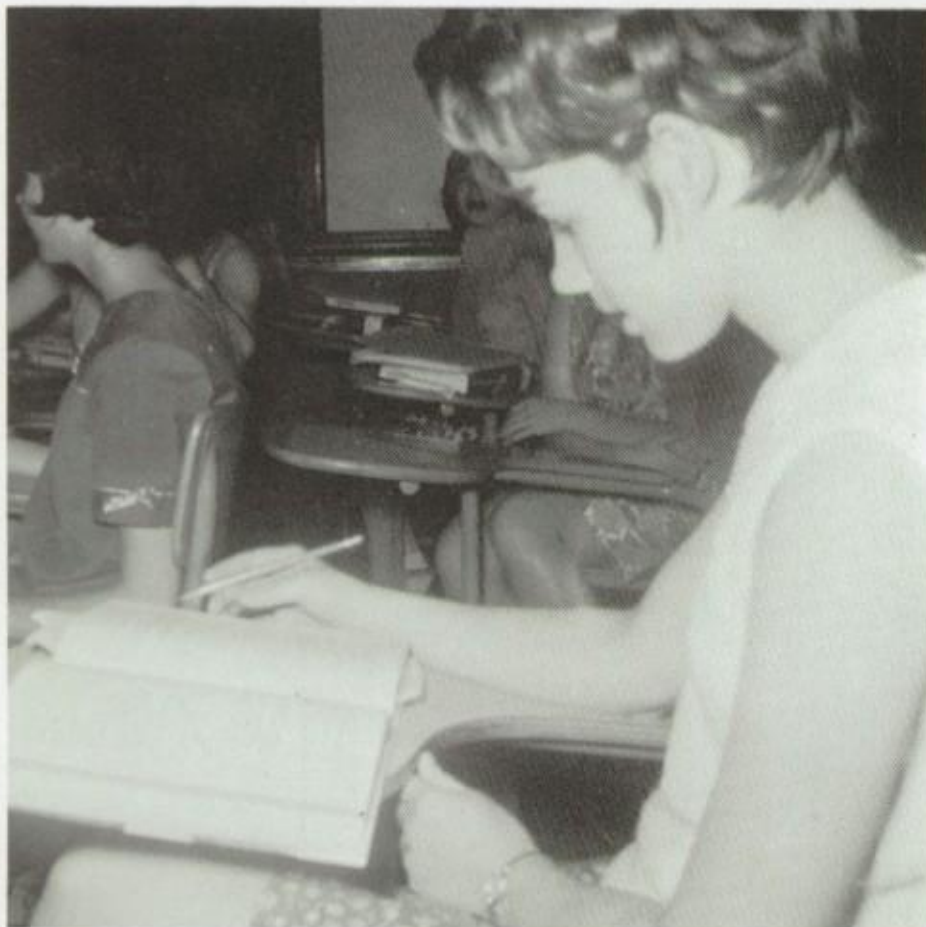

Jan Stahl and Steve Bunch learn to use the Norelco Dictating and Transcribing machine. This is a time saving device and is an aid to a busy executive or his secretary.

LANGUAGE ARTS HELP INSURE

Paper backs are becoming a popular and worthwhile addition to the English program. Sophomores studied MARTIAN CHRONICLES in Mrs. Marsh's Class and a Mark Twain novel in Miss Smith's class. George Hill, Brent Flood and Rick Harp really dig those space ship stories!!!!

Shakespeare wasn't slighted, ---- Seniors studied HAMLET and MCBETH, and Freshmen studied ROMEO AND JULIET. ----Cheryl Meadows finds Romeo just super!!

The English language arts program plays a significant part in determining the success of the total school program. It covers a broad area, stressing the importance of speaking, writing, listening, reading and critical thinking.

Since 3 units of English are included for graduation, more students are involved in the language arts program than any other department.

Classes included in this department, other than the basic English and literature courses, are Speech I and German I and II.

Gary Shaffer finds TOM SAWYER is still interesting even though he has read it before. The study of a novel in depth reveals many hidden meanings, and the 8th grade Directed Reading Class found many.

This was not only their introduction to the novel, but also to a student teacher. Mrs. Barbra Ummel, SMS Senior did her supervised teaching in Mrs. Kinser's Freshman English and directed reading.

Mrs. Ummel's bulletin boards helped her teach how to build a paragraph by comparing it to the building of a house.

ART ENCOURAGES CREATIVITY

Skip Norman, advanced art student, does a portrait using a live model, Linda Wilson.

The 8th grade constructed tiny papier mache puppets for their puppet show, "The White Cat." They built their own stage equipment, including backdrops and curtains.

The Department has been responsible for outstanding decorations at Homecoming, F.H.A. Style Show, Annual Night and Junior-Senior Banquet.

Art promotes an atmosphere where creativity can grow and produce expressive art. The basics in Art I are sketching, watercolor, ceramic, lettering, designing, and sculpture. In Art II, individual studio work in oilpainting, watercolor, sculpture, polymar painting, and ceramics were stressed. Two new mediums, artist-tissue and polymar paints were used for the first time.

The hooked rug project resulted in over 40 handlooped rugs. Some were valued at over $30. Roger Mathews won 1st place in the South Central Association District Art Show.

Home Economics creates a mood centered around the home. Girls are primarily interested in learning the basic skills in homemaking, sewing and cooking. The Advanced Clothing Class modeled garments at PTA Style Show. Each garment was evaluated for fit and appearance as well as workmanship. Patricia Champ, 2nd year student, is learning to sew a fine seam. Connie Ellison is offering some advice to a fellow seamstress.

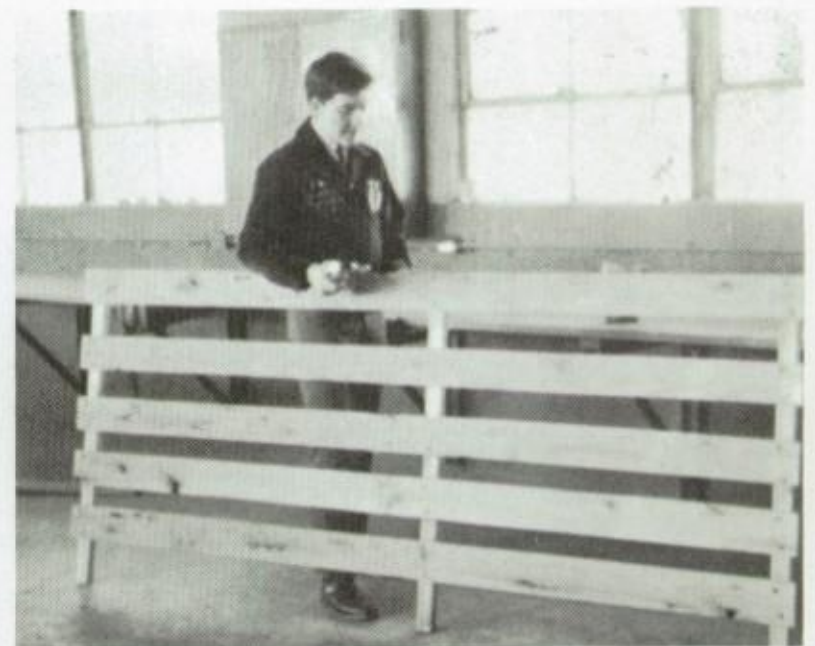

Advanced Foods Student, Janice Keltner, planned and prepared a complete meal for 2 in 30 minutes on a limited budget. Outdoor cookery was popular in Home II. Dozens of Homecoming cookies were made by Home Ec I girls.

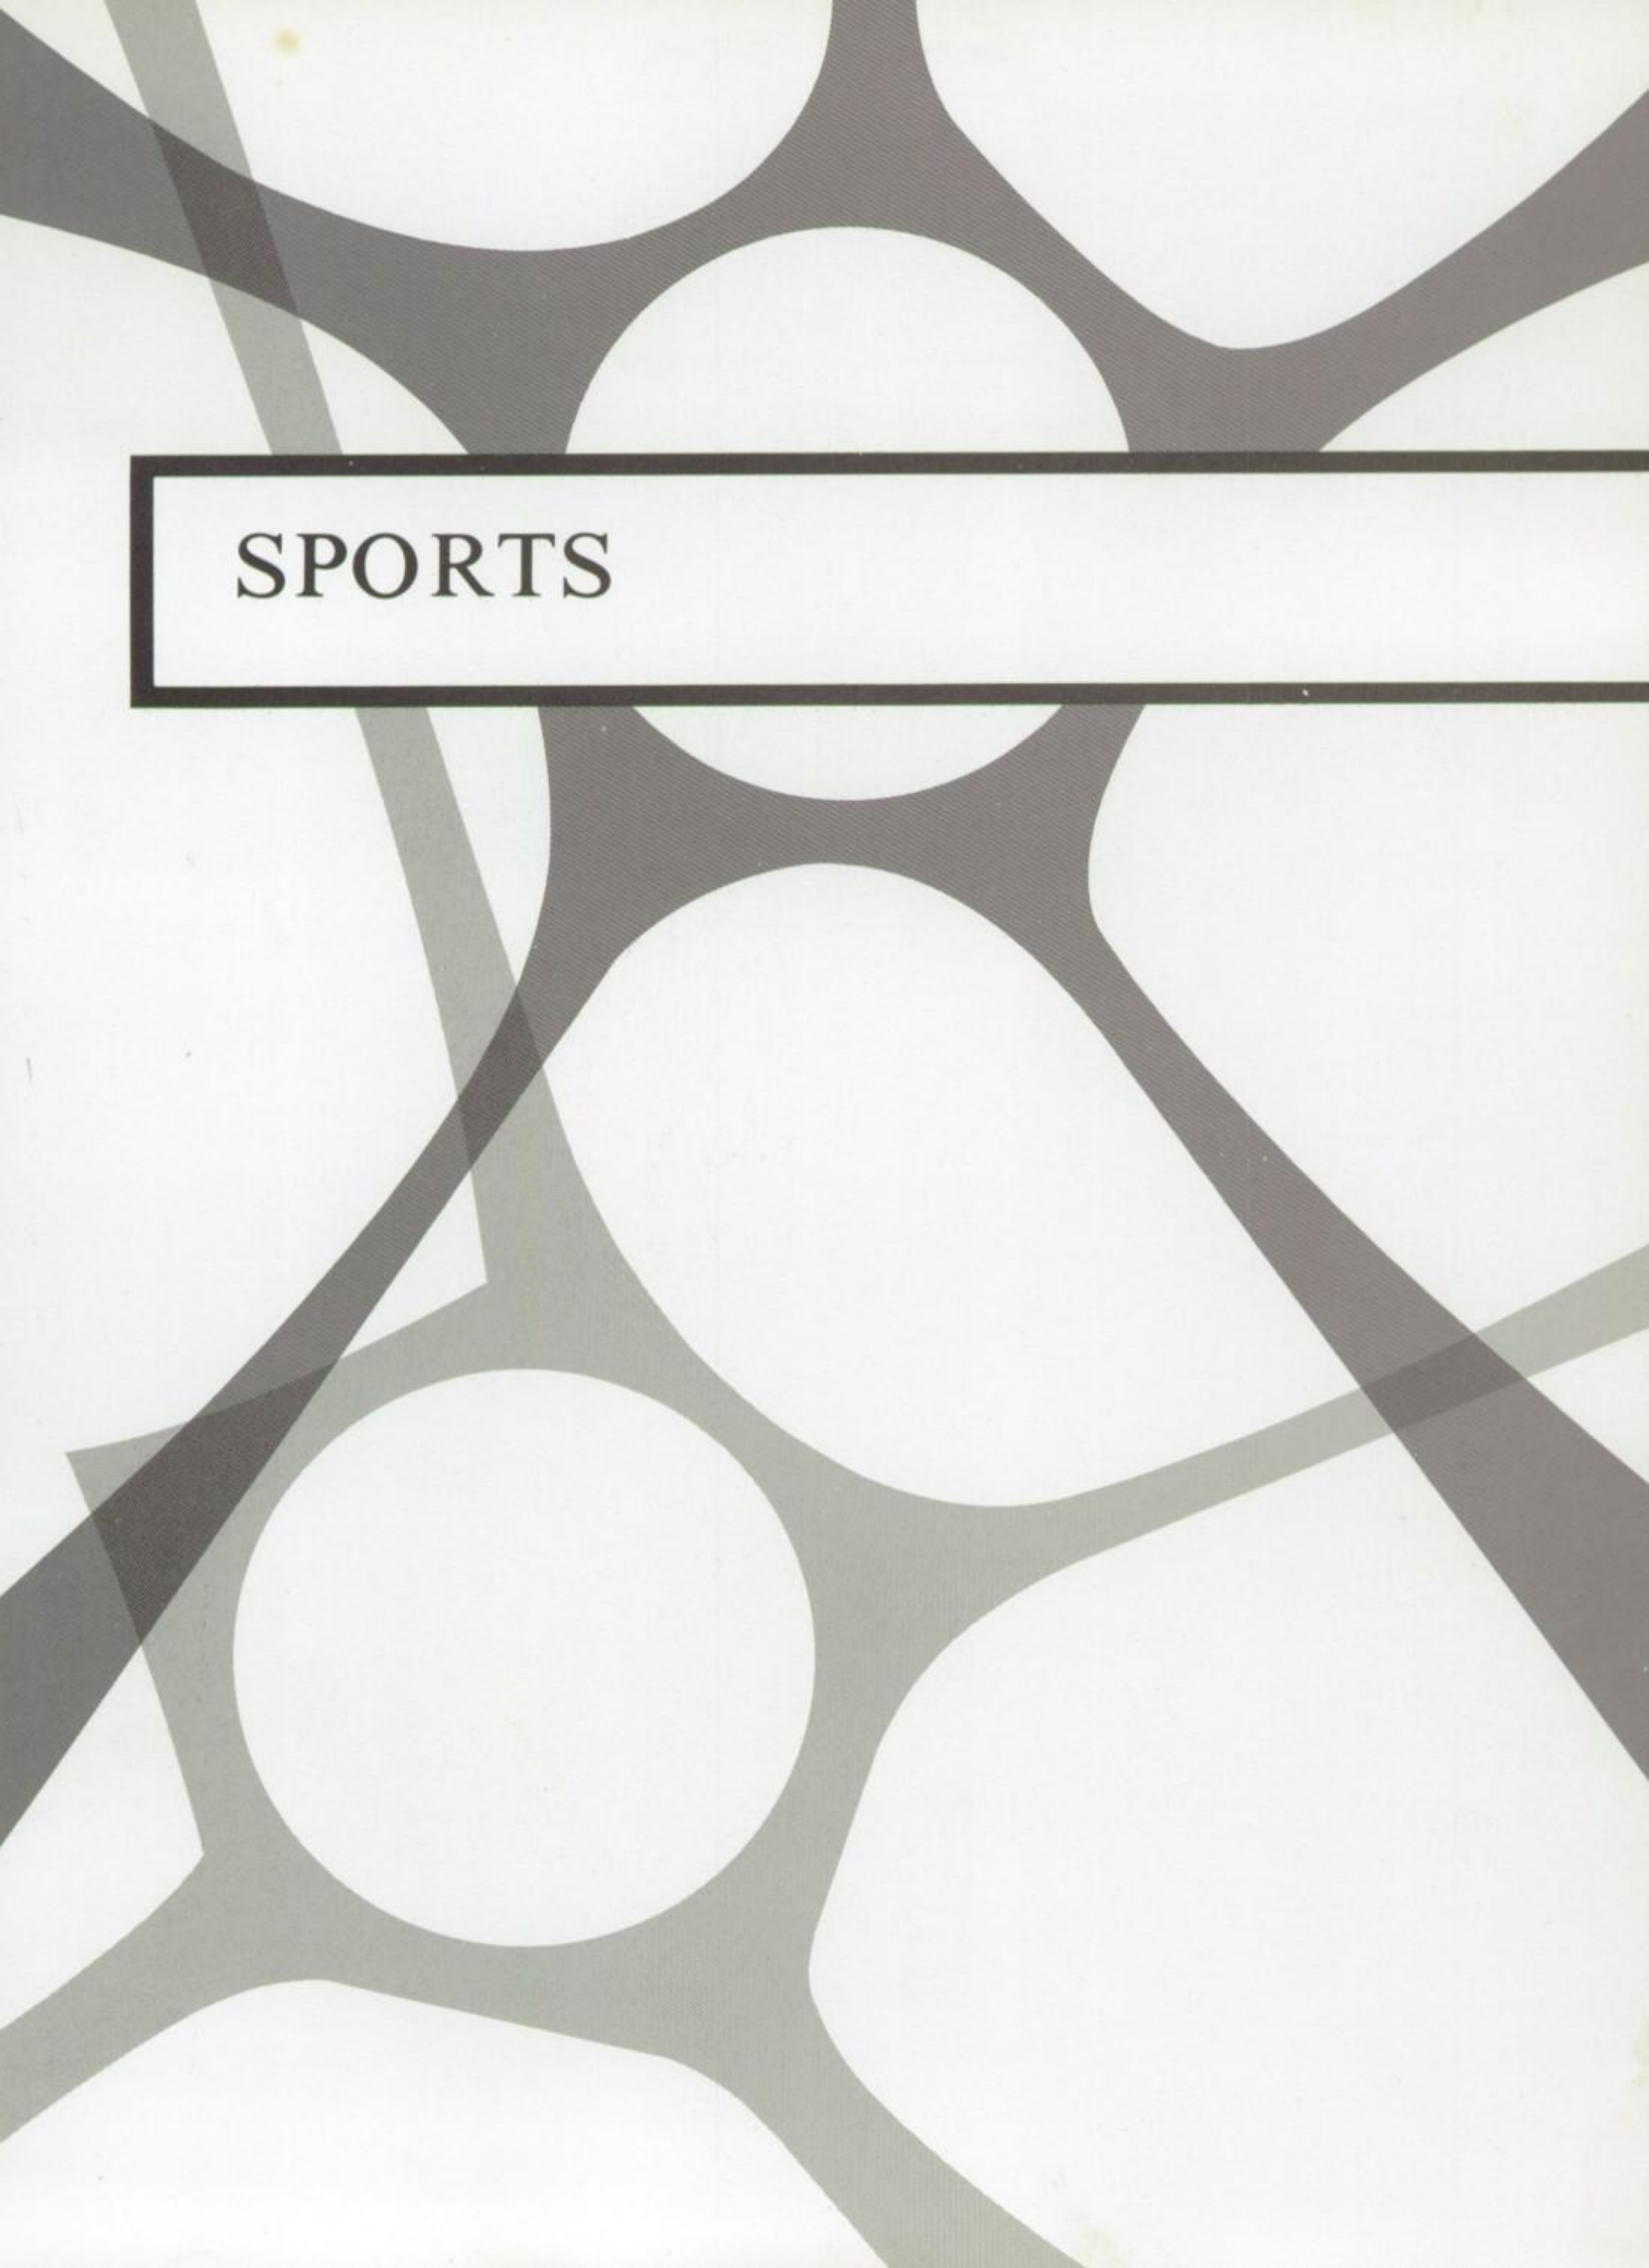

Voc. Ag. I and II students studied the science of plants and animals, and Voc. Ag. III students emphasized animal feeding and improvement as well as soils.

Jerry Page had Grand champ male and female in the Duroc swine show at Ozark, and Hal White had junior champion female in the Guernsey division.

Farm Mechanics student, Doug Rees, constructed this pasture gate. The Arc Welding class learned the principles of welding and constructing farm equipment.

AT HOMECOMING '68

A giant revolving kaleidoscope provided a setting for Nixa High School's Seventeenth Annual Homecoming on January 19, 1968. Art Club Members were the designers of the exquisite, colorful and intricate patterns which decorated the gym, stage and throne.

The new-formed stage band directed by Mr. Cutberth played throughout the evening.

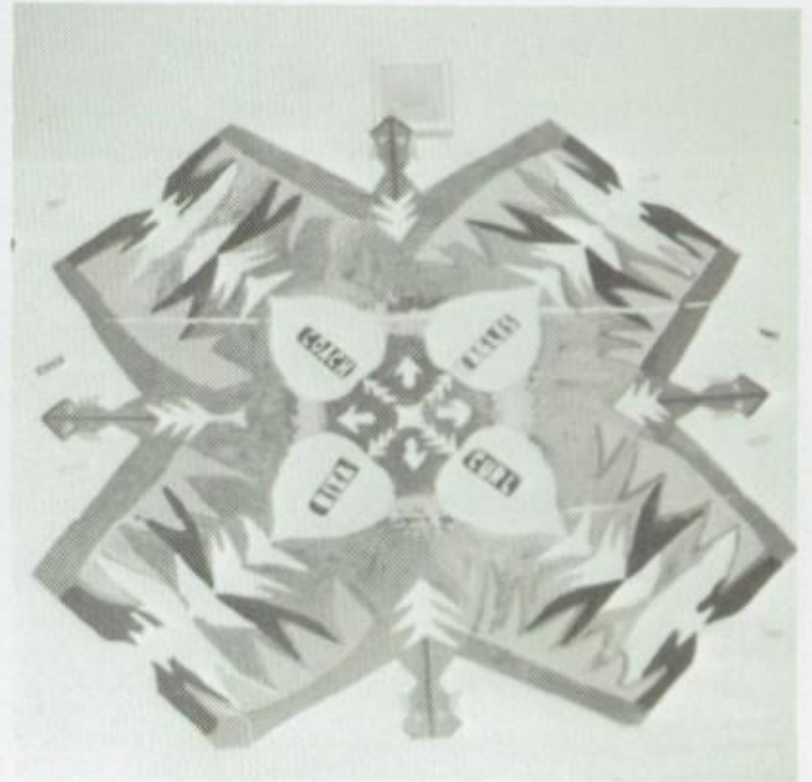

The Eagles won a decisive victory over the Clever Jays in both games.

Student Council President, Bill Pruitt acted as Master of Ceremonies and announced the winning candidates and introduced guests.

Kaleidoscope of Homecoming 1968

The ceaseless cycle of change flashes before us in Kaleidoscope 1968. Patterns, basically the same yet infinitely different, are seen in the evolving school years. The individuals involved are always different, yet the basic activities and interests are always the same.

Homecoming reflects these bright patterns of memories, friends, and dreams-past, present and future.

BEST SCHOOL CITIZENS OF 1968

Bob Curl

During Bob Curl's school days at N. H. S., he has built up an enviable and an unmatched athletic record. Ranking high in scholarship in his class of 46, he plans to continue his education at Southwest Missouri State.

N. H. S. will miss Bob's athletic ability, for it was spread over many fields. He was outstanding in basketball, baseball and especially so in track, as he set several new records.

Bob was a member of the new Concert Chorus. He has been a member of the National Honor Society for 3 years.

Bob was a master at winning friends and influencing people. This list included his team mates, fellow classmates, faculty members and the Junior girls. His right arm was always ready to escort some beautiful queen to her throne.

N. H. S. wishes success for Bob Curl!

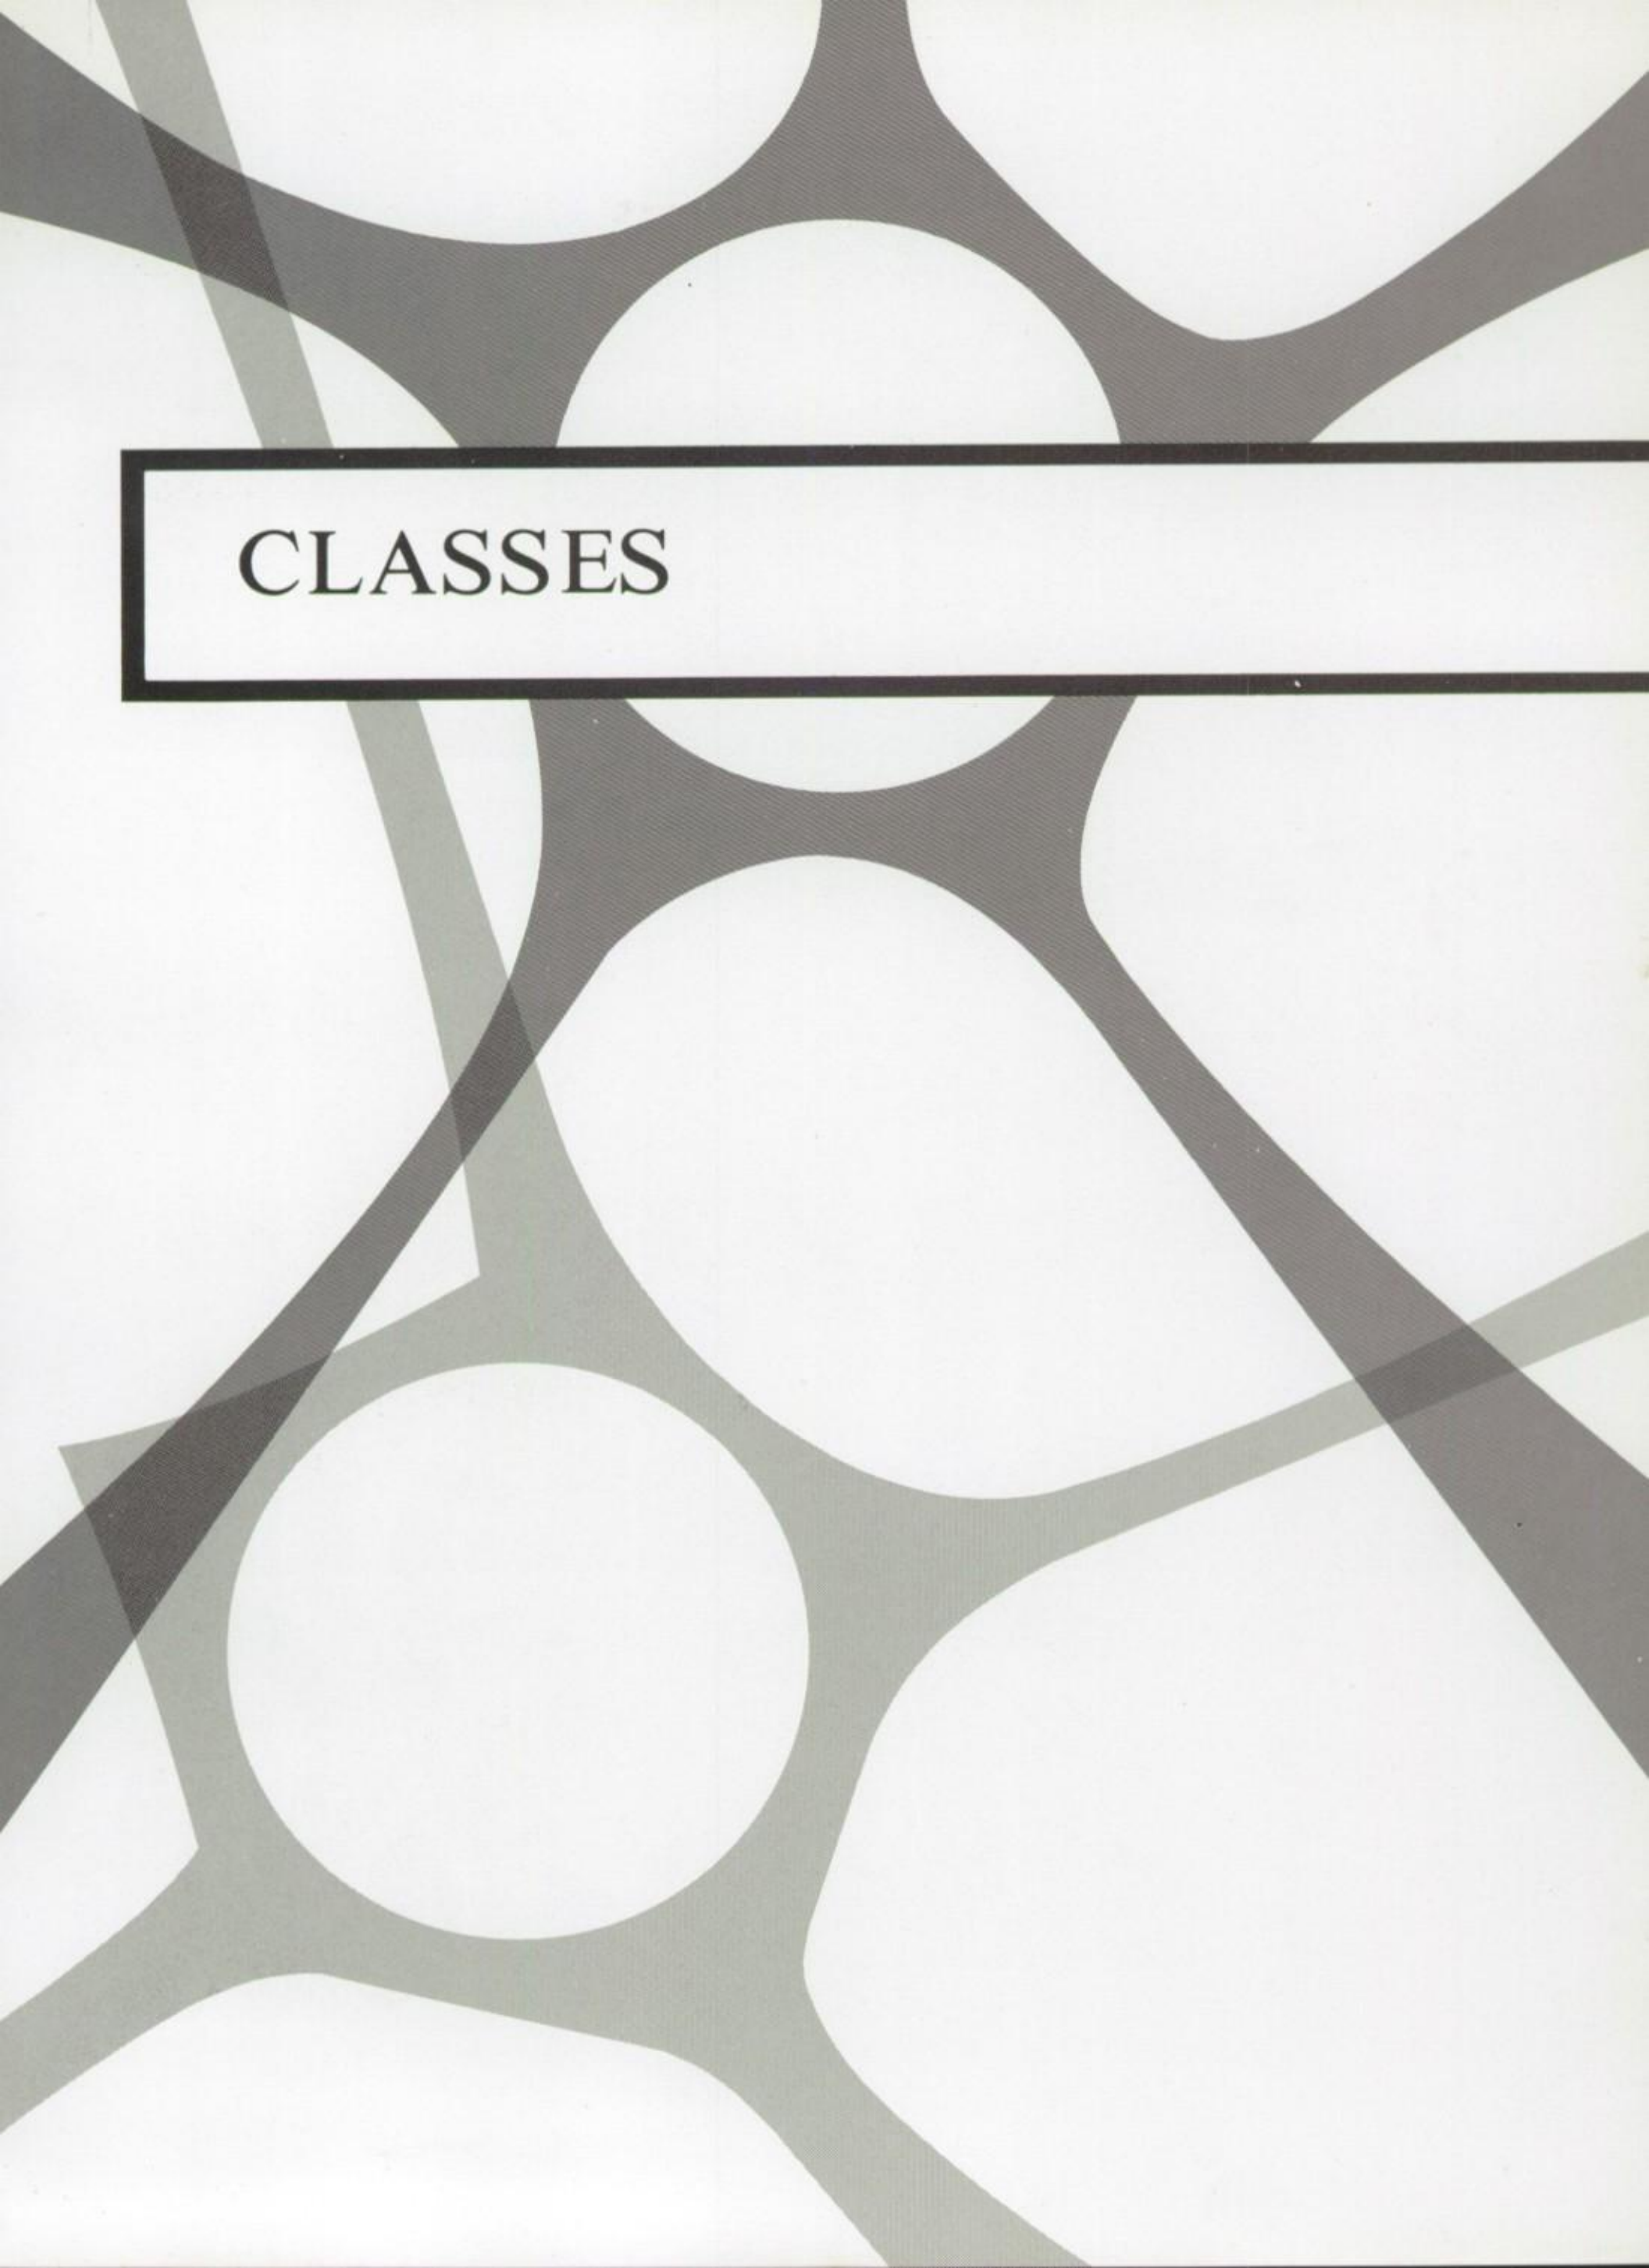

Cecelia DeLong

Cecelia De Long, best girl citizen for 1968, has been a N. H. S. student for the past 2 years. Coming here from California, Missouri, she has made many friends and become involved in many activities.

Cecelia is a very talented person, playing the piano and organ, like a professional. She is a member of Alpha Rho Tau, concert chorus and the Red Peppers. She teaches a class of small children each Sunday morning at Nixa Christian Church.

Cecelia has been chosen as 1968 Annual Queen and was an attendant to the Sucker Day Queen.

She has acted as office secretary each afternoon. Students and teachers will miss Cecelia's brisk "Swish In and Out" as she collected absentee slips for the office.

CLASSES

Seniors can point with pride to the eight Senior boys who starred for the Flying Eagles who starred in basketball, baseball and track.

The S in SOPHOMORE stood for many things. At times, they were deadly serious, and at a minute's notice, they could be just as silly. They could sell anything, from walnuts to newspapers; from slaves to license plates. The boys starred in all sports and girls were active in the Red Pepper club and several were cheerleaders.
